This Website will be a portfolio used to display my work for the purpose of applying for jobs.

This site will include a personal description of myself, my interests and skills, and a few of the projects I have worked on as well as a list of ways to contact me. This will be used to show people who have interest in hiring me what I am like and what I can bring to their team or company.

Personas:

Potential Recruiter:

Someone looking to hire me.

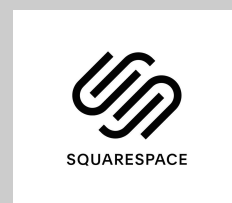

Fellow Peers:

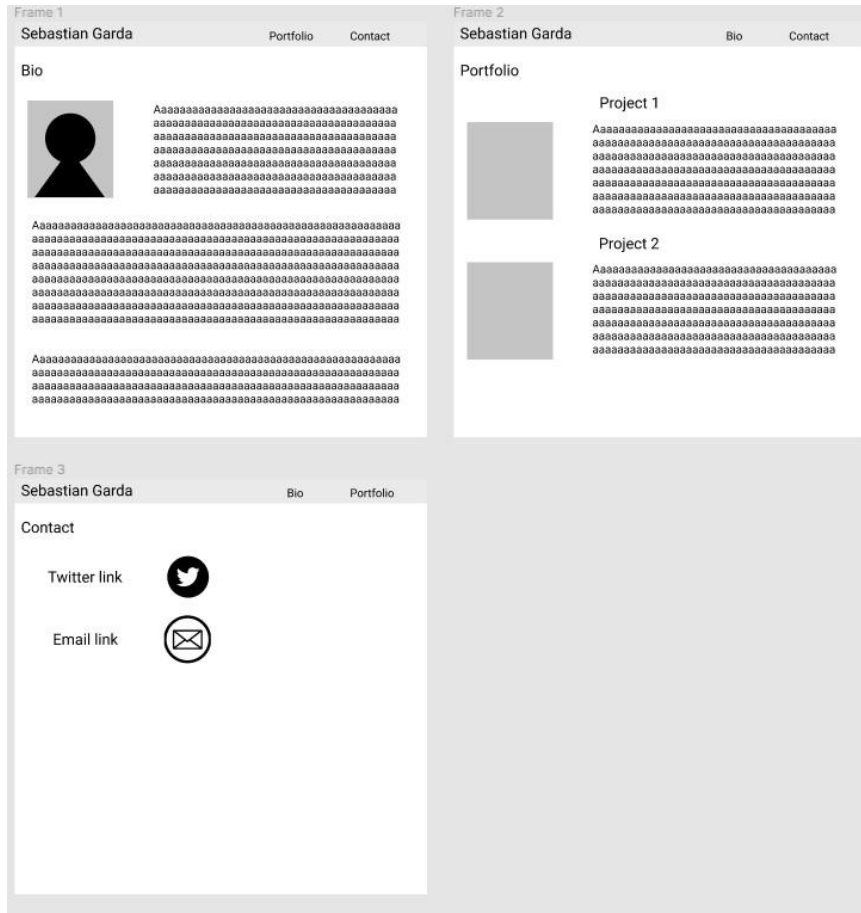

People in my industry who may want to look at my work, or get in contact with me

Me:

I would like a comprehensive portfolio of all my work that I consider well done

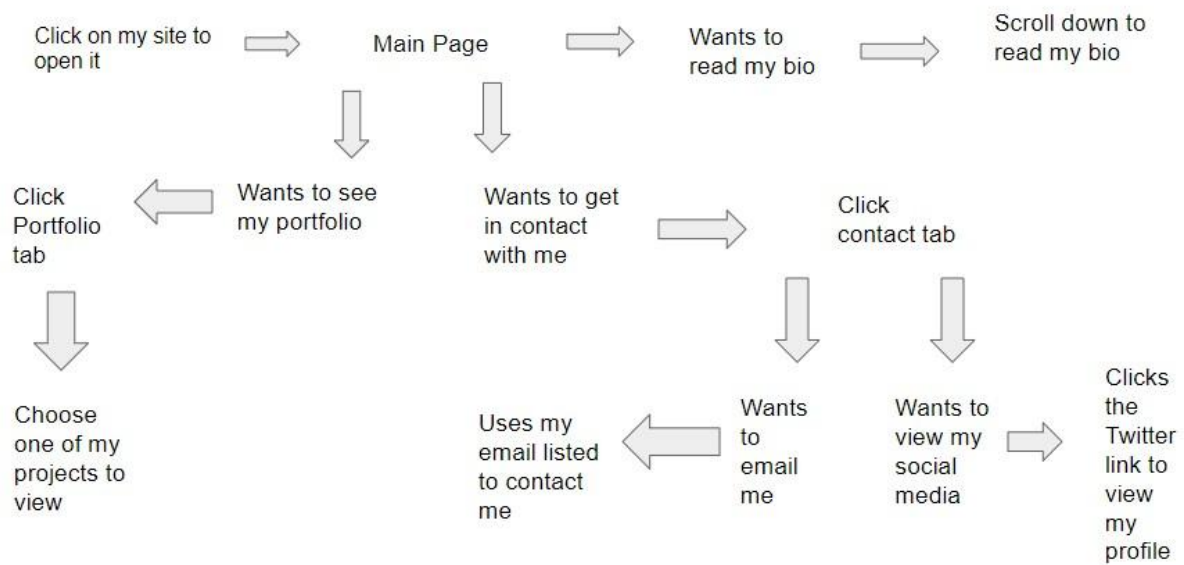

Comps:

Comp of the site, each frame is a different page. The first frame is my bio with a picture and biography as well as a header with a navigation to move to the portfolio or contact page. The second frame is the portfolio with different projects as well as a header to navigate to the Bio and Contact page. The Contact page has a link to twitter and email as well as a header that navigates to the Bio and Portfolio

Flow

User flow which shows how a user might navigate the site after opening it depending on what they are looking to do on my site.
